The Systems and Software Product Line Conference (SPLC) is a premier forum where researchers, practitioners, and educators can present and discuss the most recent ideas, trends, experiences, and challenges in the area of software and system product lines engineering. Conference events include opportunities to hear industry leaders' real-world experiences and researchers' latest ideas and to learn from both. The 24th ACM International Systems and Software Product Line Conference (SPLC 2020) will be held from October 19th to 23rd in Montreal, Canada.

We have updated our deadlines due to COVID-19 emergency; the following new deadlines are firm.

Call for Research Papers: Submit high quality research work that uses established scientific methodologies, written using high standards of academic technical publications. Deadline: May 7, 2020.

Call for Industrial Systems and Software Product Lines Papers: Present challenges, innovations and solutions to concrete industrial applications of software and product line engineering methodologies and tools. Submitted papers should showcase a significant software component to the research. Deadline: May 7, 2020.

Call for Challenges Solutions: We are currently in Phase 2 of the challenge track, and the Call for Solutions is open. Please consult the website for further details. Both accepted challenges descriptions and their solutions will be included in the conference proceedings. Deadline: June 22, 2020.
